PIANO FORTES

Put in complete order, tone and tune, without the necessity of sending them to a factory. The subscriber from Boston continues to offer his services to the citizens of Bangor and vicinity in every department of Piano Forte work. Being a practical Piano Forte worker of nearly twenty years experience, and more recently from the manufactory of Messrs. CHICKERING & SONS, of Boston, where he has been employed for more than six years in the Regulating Department, gives him the utmost assurance that he can offer himself fully to the confidence of the Musical Public. Those who may be contemplating sending their Pianos to Boston to be put in order, will have the opportunity to forego that inconvenience and expense, by leaving their orders with Messrs. LOWELL & SPENCER, Music Dealers, No. 4 Main Street, can have the same accomplished without moving them from the [illegible] renewing of which will render the action [illegible] to the most delicate touch, and increase [illegible] [illegible] together with a style of tuning [illegible] the most desirable results. Warranted satisfaction or no pay. The patronage of [illegible] is respectfully solicited.

Sheriff's Sale.

PENOBSCOT, ss. February 22, 1871.

Taken on Execution, and will be sold at public auction, at the office of J. H. Wilson in Bangor, in the County of Penobscot, on SATURDAY the first day of April, A. D. 1871, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, all the right in equity in which Richard Kent of Brewer, in said County, has, or had on the seventeenth day of October, A. D. 1870, the time of the attachment on the original writ, to redeem the following described parcel of mortgaged Real Estate situated in said Brewer, to wit: a certain lot of land with the buildings thereon, on the easterly side of the County road leading through said Brewer to Bucksport, and being lot numbered eleven on a plan of the widow's thirds in the Charles Burr place, in said town, as laid down on said plan made by S. B. Stone, June 21, 1851. Said plan is recorded in Penobscot Registry for Deeds, Vol. 3 Plan Book, page 53, said lot being eight rods on the county road and five rods on Burr Street.

I. N. MAYO, Dept. Sheriff.

Administratrix' Notice.

The subscriber hereby gives public notice to all concerned, that she has been duly appointed, and has taken upon herself the trust of Administratrix of the estate of in the County of Penobscot, deceased, by giving bond as the law directs. She therefore requests all persons who are indebted to the estate of said deceased to make immediate payment, and those who have any demands thereon, to present the same for settlement to her.

To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot.

Your petitioner, Ruel Smith, Ancillary Administrator of the estate of Thomas Taylor, late of San Francisco, Cal., respectfully represents that his final account has been settled, and that he has reason to believe that there are no unpaid claims against said estate, within the jurisdiction of said Ancillary Administration, and that there is a balance now in his hands due said estate.

Therefore your petitioner prays that your honor may decree that the balance may be paid over to the Principal Administrator.

Important Notice
TO Ship Owners.

AMERICAN LLOYDS OFFICE,
Burlin Slip, New York,
Jan. 31, 1871.

The Register for 1871 is now ready. The January Supplements will contain the introduction to the history of the "Register." In order to supply the demand for the Exposition, an extra edition will be printed and furnished gratuitously to all parties in possession of a book called the "Record," or a book called the "American Lloyds Universal."

HARTSHORN & KING.

The American Lloyds Register, being the acknowledged standard of American surveys of shipping, approved by underwriters generally, and adopted by the Peruvian Government as a standard for the selection of ships to carry Guano, also by the California Board of Underwriters and the West India Lloyds at Havana, &c., &c., it is important to owners to have their vessels surveyed and classed in its "Register." Having competent surveyors throughout the State of Maine, I am prepared to order or make surveys personally, of those apply, and to grant certificates under the "Standard Rules" issued by the Board. Also parties can be supplied with copies of the American Lloyds Register, for 1871, by sending their orders to me at the National Insurance Company, Bangor.

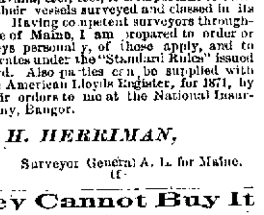
Money Cannot Buy It
For Sight is Priceless!



THE DIAMOND GLASSES,

Manufactured by J. E. SPENCER & CO., New York which are now offered to the public, are pronounced by all the celebrated Opticians of the World to be the MOST PERFECT, Natural, Artificial help to the human eye ever known.

They are ground under their own supervision, from minute Crystal Pebbles, melted together, and derive their name, "Diamond" on account of their hardness and brilliancy.

The Scientific Principle on which they are constructed brings the core or centre of the lens directly in front of the eye, producing a clear and distinct vision, as in the natural healthy sight, and preventing all unpleasant sensations, such as glimmering and wavering of sight, dizziness, &c., peculiar to all others in use.

They are mounted in the finest manner, in frames of the best quality, of all materials used for that purpose. Their finish and durability cannot be surpassed.

CAUTION.—None genuine unless bearing their trade mark <> stamped on every frame.

LOWELL & SPENCER,

A New, Wonderful and Useful Invention,
CALLED A
Tidal Power,

Has been discovered at the expense of many years study and experiment, which will revolutionize the method of obtaining power for driving machinery of all kinds.

Although this power is obtained from the rise and fall of the tides, machinery can be driven at a long distance from the seat of power with this invention, by means of a wire rope which is now in common use for similar purposes.

This Machinery is so simple and occupies so little room that it can be erected on any wharf, and the expense of the Machinery very trifling compared to other power.

It will run for years without any expense and without any person to tend it, the power being continuously obtained night and day if desired, a common scow being sufficient to drive light machinery.

This power can easily and effectually be applied to ring Fog Bells, saving the Government thousands of dollars yearly, needing no attention after being once set in motion.

The principle by which a continuous motion of the Main Shaft is insured in a given direction, can also be applied to Sewing Machines and prevent the possibility of the machine changing to the troublesome backward motion which breaks the thread; by using this process on Sewing Machines, both hands of the operator are entirely at liberty to hold the work. Children can run them without trouble.

In manufacturing Sewing Machines for the future the Balance Wheels can be entirely dispensed with, consequently making a great saving in the manufacturing. This principle can be applied to every machine at a trifling cost.

The application of this principle can also be made to foot Lathes, the motion of the foot being hardly perceptible and more speed attained than with the crank. It also saves the motion of the body when propelling the machine, and favors the ankle.

The "Close Treadle" for Sewing Machines, constructed to embody the above named principle and capable of being applied to sewing machines of any size, kind, or shape, are now being manufactured, and in a few days may be seen, at the clothing store of E. O. Smart on Exchange Street, in operation attached to a sewing machine from the manufactory of B. P. Howe, successor to the late A. B. Howe, the originator of the "Improved Howe Sewing Machine."

A license to manufacture and sell ten thousand of the "Close Treadle" having been granted to A. E. Kimball, agent for the "Improved Howe Sewing Machine," he will immediately introduce them to this market through his agents, who will apply them to machines of any manufacture at prices so low that every person owning a Sewing Machine will be sure to have one.

It is a useful and valuable invention, and is worthy of the investigation of all scientific men.

Letters Patent were issued for this Invention, dated December 27th, 1870, obtained through the agency of Fred H. Coombs of this City.

75,000 Acres
OF GOOD
Timber Land
For Sale at a Low Rate,

Situated on Moose River, in the town of Greig, Lewis County, New York.

Said timber consisting of White Hemlock, Spruce, Pine and Hardwood. The subscribers own two large tanneries, located on the aforesaid tract, which will consume the hemlock bark, thus enabling the land and timber to be purchased at a comparatively cheap rate. The timber is excellent in quality in all particulars. The aforesaid tract of land is easy of access, being only from six to fifteen miles from both the Black River R. R. and Black River Canal, which lead direct to the Albany Market. The land is comparatively level, well watered and good for farming purposes. Moose River, which extends through the tract, is a large stream and empties into Black River, where the aforesaid Canal leads into Black River. At this point or junction of the rivers, is a fall of sixty (60) feet, over which the waters of both rivers flow, thus forming an unlimited water power, (we might say right in the Canal and at the Depot,) to which Moose River will carry the immense amount of timber from the aforesaid lands.

Any parties desiring to manufacture lumber will do well to give this rare opportunity their attention. The land and timber can be purchased at a cheap rate or the timber alone permitted.

AMERICAN AND FOREIGN PATENTS

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 76 State Street, opposite Kilby Street Boston.

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with despatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

THE REVISION OF THE TARIFF

The repeal of the duties on salt and coal, [is] hailed with satisfaction by all except Protectionists of the most uncompromising type, but the evident insincerity of the vote which without consideration or debate added tea, coffee and sugar to the free list, has elicited the disapproval of the majority of journals earnestly favoring tariff reform, but at the same time deprecating any such reckless action upon a matter of so much importance. The removal of all these duties would, it is estimated, reduce the revenues of the country by the amount of $25,000,000, annually, and this should certainly not be done without some provision for making up at least a portion of the deficiency. There can be little doubt that the latter resolution owed its passage almost entirely to the confidence of members in its inevitable defeat in the Senate, and the country will give the House no credit for acting with the impulse of schoolboys on questions that demand the exercise of the highest order of discretion.

Even the N Y Post, the foremost organ of the Free Traders, makes haste to inform [illegible] that they are moving too fast and [illegible] wait awhile before meddling with sugar, tea and coffee. Of the latter it [illegible]

It would be [illegible] to make them free of [illegible] luxuries could produce [illegible] for the government, but [illegible] be the case, tea and coffee [illegible] the most proper subjects [illegible] be selected. * When coal, salt, iron, [illegible] lumber, wool, machinery, [illegible] chemicals and medicines are made [illegible] there is still a surplus remaining to be [illegible] relieving the people from taxation [illegible] the claim for a free breakfast table will come in next in order. For the present [illegible] modifying the tariff [illegible] the revenues of the [illegible] sufficiently to cripple important industries [illegible] changes which may [illegible] and delay the progress of reform.

The N Y Times, which is in favor of such [illegible] revision of the tariff as will benefit [illegible] without endangering the national [illegible] expresses a similar view as follows:

The existing duties on tea and coffee [illegible] be said to be of an oppressive character. They foster no monopolies, and [illegible] make no doubtful requisition upon the [illegible] of the nation. They are purely [illegible] revenue and belong, moreover, to the most elastic kind of Customs duties. They have been among the last to be surrendered by other nations in the process of taxation, and neither here nor anywhere [illegible] has their retention ever formed the subject of popular agitation. As a relief to [illegible] the reduction of the taxes on iron, steel, [illegible] wool and other raw materials that [illegible] all our manufactures, would [illegible] more efficacious. The country [illegible] the present session of Congress [illegible] anything but [illegible] of tariff reform. The removal [illegible] tea and coffee duties [illegible] readjustment [illegible] tariff, and their abolition at the present [illegible] designed to obstruct the progress of further reduction in a way that would prove adverse to Pennsylvania [illegible] protectionists. From this point of view the [illegible] of our domestic beverages [illegible] the unqualified benefit [illegible] in its due time and place it would [illegible] have been. Such considerations [illegible] taken into account by the Senate [illegible]

With Democratic jubilation [illegible] N H on Wednesday evening over the result of the election, they brought out the old Democratic ship [illegible] which [illegible] to use since — [illegible] and fireworks with [illegible] political Fund [illegible]

[illegible] claims to take its turn in electing Democratic ruler this year. We suppose that [illegible] refuse to follow the [illegible] was so well established that all our [illegible] single [illegible] ticket. But these Bangor [illegible] so disgusted it seems, with [illegible] apostasy that they have [illegible] the double quick.
[Portland Press

[illegible] demanded herself from the [illegible] last September by allowing the Democracy to walk in and take possession [illegible] but a short lived [illegible] will be found walking [illegible] the [illegible] wicked ways of Democracy.—[Kennebec Journal

Butler prepared a long letter after the [illegible] of the resolution introduced by Mr [illegible] Wednesday night and had copies [illegible] the desks of members Thursday morning. He denounced the action of the House [illegible] the resolution as a combination of [illegible] and Democrats (though a majority of both sides voted for it) and declaring that he would not serve on a committee largely composed of his political opponents, gave his reasons at great length and concluded by the following allusion to the action of the Speaker in appointing him on the Committee:

[illegible] demonstrate that even if a majority of a parliamentary body can force a Massachusetts man off a committee at its pleasure that it is quite another thing for the Speaker to force another on a committee [illegible] consent

NEW HAMPSHIRE—NO ELECTION FOR GOVERNOR. A dispatch from Concord N H Thursday says: The returns from 218 towns indicate no election for Governor by the people. Pike has 33,4[illegible] Weston, 3[illegible] Cooper and scattering 1074. The House stands 1[illegible]2 Republicans 164 Democrats and 4 Labor Reform. The Senate 4 Republicans 5 Democrats and 3 vacancies. The Executive Council 2 Republicans, 2 Democrats and a vacancy in the 1st District. Probably all of the Democratic Congressmen are elected.

A later dispatch gives the following additional details:

The scattering vote which runs up to 1100 or 1200 defeats Weston by 100 or 200 votes as near as we can judge.

Hibbard has 400 majority in the 1st Congressional District, Bell will probably have 700 or 800 majority in the 2d District. In Parker's, 3d district, estimating a few small towns by last year's vote, the Democratic plurality is 107. Parker runs well up with his ticket and we think without doubt is elected.

The Senate now looks as if Democrats were chosen in Districts 4, 6, 8, 10, 11 and 12, and Republicans in Districts 2, 3, 7 and 9. There is no choice in Districts 1 and [illegible]

The House is probably Democratic by from [illegible] 10 majority, counting three or four Labor Reformers with the Democrats.

The Washington correspondent of the N Y Standard, pays the following high compliment to the member from the fifth district:

Mr Hale of Maine, one of the ablest, as he is one of the youngest, members of the House bears a refinement and cultivation of manner, a decision and candor in his speech, which renders him at all times a strong, because a trustworthy advocate.

The N Y World's sensational story about soldiers held in readiness to go to San Domingo, is spoiled by the statement of General McDowell that the troops referred to at Governor's Island have been on the island since last October and will soon go to the Northwestern frontier.

LEVANT. Moderator J A Bowler, Selectmen, &c S G Jerrard S A Mayfield, Elijah Clement Clerk G W Reed, Treasurer, B Barton, S S Committee, A H Waugh Collector, David Leighton.

The Tribune referring to the filthy abuse heaped upon Gen Sickles in the columns of the World, administers the following sharp reminder of the past:

There is one sufficient answer to this unwholesome blackguardism. At the time when these men assert that Gen Sickles was doing all these disreputable things he was one of the trusted and honored leaders of the Democratic party in New York city. Their libels of to-day dishonor their past. For ten years Gen Sickles has acted with the Republican Union party—years full of glorious history — * * * * * * We are content to look back upon this honorable decade of service and leave his earlier days to the malice of those who cannot throw dirt at him without fouling the ancient nest where he was the chief and they were his obedient henchmen.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL

There was no choice for State Senator in the Portsmouth N H District.

Secretary Boutwell believes the government will be able to place the entire two hundred millions of [illegible] per cents within twenty weeks.

Wm M Evarts entertained the Yale College Alumni at his residence in New York city Wednesday evening. Four hundred guests were present.

The New York Assembly Railway Committee has adjourned to Wednesday next without fixing a time for a hearing on the bill to repeal the [illegible] classification act.

A meeting of the citizens of San Francisco Wednesday evening to make arrangements for the proper reception of President Grant on his proposed visit to California, adopted a resolution formally inviting him and appointed a committee of arrangements.

The Governor has failed to sign the [illegible] passed by the Kansas Legislature making it necessary to have the signature of the Executive attached to the death warrant of a convicted criminal before his execution.

A Charleston S C dispatch states that as a result of the conference on Wednesday between Governor Scott and leading citizens with reference to the disturbances in Chester and York Counties the Governor has withdrawn the State arms from the negro militia. Perfect quiet is said to be restored in both counties.

The New York Times says that though Mr Sumner will be regarded by his friends as a martyr it appears that he owes his removal to his own obstinacy. It adds that to conclude that the Senate submitted to the dictation of the President in making the removal is an insult to Senators and is adopting a very improbable view of the case.

There were some very sad things connected with the dissolution of the Forty first Congress. A lady correspondent dimly hints at one thus "William B Allison is no more in the seat he lately occupied. Never again will the large brown eyes be seen wandering uneasily from floor to ceiling seeking some soft, receptive spot whereon to languish and die."

General Cluseret, a Republican of the deepest crimson hue is now in Geneva, denouncing the people of France for their tame submission, and declaring that the wealthy classes have brought ruin on the country — He feels confident in his own mind that France has done what Dante did.

The Mississippi Senate on Wednesday indefinitely postponed the election of a U S Senator. This is regarded as a triumph for Alcorn, who will remain Governor, hold an election and go to the Senate. The House adopted by a party vote a resolution endorsing the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments, and condemning the questioning by any person of the legality of the ratification of those acts — A bitter discussion occurred.

On account of inability of Revenue officers in the South to make a thorough collection of taxes, by reason of the spirit of outlawry existing outside the large cities and especially in distillery districts a draft of a bill for a National Revenue Police has been prepared which is understood to meet the approval of the President, Attorney General, Commissioner Pleasanton and other prominent officers.

The miners of the bituminous region of Pennsylvania out of sympathy for those of the anthracite region, have resolved to suspend work in a few days. The bituminous coal fields through the Chenango Valley employ 20,000 miners. The Lehigh Valley Railroad and other roads are now using bituminous coal and should these mines suspend the railroads will be deprived of their supply.

CUBA AND PORTO RICO. The New York Tribune's Washington special of Wednesday night, says "There is a rumor to-night of advices received from Minister Sickles submitting as the result of negotiations he has been conducting for several months past, a proposition from the Government of Spain for the sale to this Government, of Cuba and Porto Rico. The amount asked is believed to be one hundred million dollars, payable in instalments."

CONVICTION AND SENTENCE OF FILKINS. The jury in the case of Filkins the Albany Express robber and would-be assassin on Wednesday morning rendered a verdict of guilty of robbing in the first degree. The Court immediately sentenced the prisoner to twenty years, imprisonment in the Clinton prison, being the full extent of the law. The prisoners' counsel will prepare a bill of exceptions, and apply for a writ of error and carry the matter before the general term of the Supreme Court for review.

LATEST NEWS IN BRIEF

The ship Annie Smull from Hong Kong, has been libelled in San Francisco for smuggling opium.

The Grand Jury in Hartford, Ct, has found a true bill against Mrs Ann M Stiles for an attempt at murder by poisoning the families of Messrs Pitkin and Dewey, in So Windsor. The trial is set down for July.

B B Carroll a lumber merchant of St Carroll, Iowa, on Wednesday morning, shot and killed his wife, set fire to his house, and then shot himself dead. He married his wife in the Last last fall.

The fire works manufactory at Jefferson Ill, was blown up Wednesday morning and four men were severely injured.

Johnson Peters and Thompson mutineers on the ship Shatemuc of Bath were sentenced in New York, Wednesday, to five years in the Albany Penitentiary.

FATAL BOILER EXPLOSION. The boiler in a coal breaker at Ashland, Pa, exploded Thursday morning, killing Mark Daniel engineer, and seriously if not fatally injuring several other persons. A portion of the boiler crushed through a house near the breaker and buried under the fragments two children who were in bed, but they were not seriously injured.

Soldiers of the War of 1812, ATTENTION!

Congress has passed a law giving a Pension of $8 per month to the officers Soldiers and Seamen of the war of 1812 who served sixty days or over and to the widows of such as have died and who were married previous to 1815, thus long justice to this brave and meritorious band of patriots. I have all the rolls and records of this service and they are not to be found at any other place in this State to my knowledge.

I will give every soldier the benefit of these records to establish his claim to a pension and I will assist him in the prompt and speedy prosecution of his claim. If the soldiers discharge is lost these records are invaluable.

The fee is fixed by law at $10, no charge made unless a pension is obtained.

Application can be made in person at any office in Bangor or by letter giving name of Company [illegible] and length of service &c.

SANTO DOMINGO

THE COMMISSIONERS AT PORT AU PRINCE.

INTERVIEW WITH SAGET

THE FEELING IN HAYTI.

The Expedition to Reach Home by the 25th inst.

SAMANA BAY, Feb 23

The U S Steamer Nantasket has arrived here from San Domingo, bringing news five days later than that brought by the Tybee — On the 18th Commissioner White left San Domingo City on an overland trip to Puerto Plata. At the latter place he will be taken on board the Nantasket and proceed to Port au Prince, the capital of Hayti, where by previous arrangements he will have an interview with Cabral. Mr White is accompanied by Samuel Hazard, Jr of Philadelphia, and Mr. Blackwell of Newark, N. J.

Much excitement had been caused in San Domingo City by an official announcement that the inhabitants of Bani and San Christoval had hauled down the Dominican colors and raised the American flag. Commissioner Howe had gone to Bani to investigate the matter

A revolutionary force composed of adherents of Ex President Salnave were about marching against Hayti, with the object of overthrowing Saget, the present President, and placing Lecomte at the head of the Government. Lecomte, accompanied by Major C. G. Megowe of Cincinnati, had visited the Commission. The Nantasket yesterday duly honored Washington, and today sails for Puerto Plata to meet Commissioner White

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti, Mch 7

The Commission reached here the second of March from Azua. All are in excellent health. They will wait here for Commissioner White, who is expected by the 10th, bringing with him two scientific expeditions under Professors Blake and Ward, that crossed before him. The Tennessee will then start immediately for home touching at Santiago de Cuba and Key West for coal. The question of debt and disputed boundary are the most important since the last dispatches. The Haytiens are bitterly opposed to annexation. The Commissioners, however, were received civilly. Cabral's strength consists almost wholly of Haytien support.

The information that the Tennessee had been reported missing first reached the party here. The statement of Gen. Banks that she was unseaworthy was received with great indignation and denounced as heartlessly cruel. She is one of the strongest and best ships in the navy, with a select company of efficient officers who expect now, unless delayed by the Nantasket, to reach home by 25th of March or at the farthest, the first of April. A delay of one week from this cause is possible, and if the ship is not heard from for two weeks it should not cause anxiety. A mail from the Commission leaves for New York to day by the steamer Port au Prince. Commissioner Wade is preparing a short preliminary report which he hopes to get off on the steamer this evening, he has also sent a short letter to the President. Dr Howe had arranged for a pretty thorough exploration of this section of Hayti, but Mr Wade insisted that there was no authority it, and it should not be done

The second day after our arrival here Messrs Wade and Howe called, by previous agreement, on the President and his Cabinet. The meeting had no reference to annexation. All the Cabinet were present and upon being presented, Mr Wade said "We are Commissioners of the United States charged with the duty of making inquiries touching the state and condition of the Dominican Republic with a view to the possibility of more intimate relations between the two Republics than have hitherto existed and having performed that duty we were reluctant to leave this beautiful island without doing ourselves the honor of calling and paying our respects to the President of the Haytien Republic and we desire to express our hope that the same friendly and amicable relations that have so long animated the people of both nations may long continue. In doing this we express the sincere sentiments of the President and people of the United States"

President Saget replied that he gladly reciprocated the feelings of friendship expressed by Mr Wade and he would do all in his power to aid their researches

After some informal conversation Mr Wade said he greatly regretted not being able to speak in their own language because he thought he would then be able to say a great deal that would allay the present feeling towards the United States by showing points in which the Haytiens misunderstand us

President Saget at this earnestly said, that the educated class in Hayti fully understood and appreciated the condition of the United States but a large class only understood the slavery which existed there and the fact that they had themselves been slaves and it was impossible to influence them

The President at the close of the conference, said he would try and visit the Commissioners. He is not expected, however, on account of the general and popular feeling against the Commission in the harbor

Cabral has sent a communication to the frontier for the Commission in answer to a letter from Dr Howe, written at Azua, but the letter is delayed until the Haytien authorities can correspond with the Minister in regard to receiving it.

Mr Wade is anxious not to complicate matters in bringing him here wishing as he does, to avoid all appearance of being engaged while in Hayti in prosecuting the investigation looking to annexation

FORTY-SECOND CONGRESS

FIRST SESSION.

WASHINGTON, March 1[illegible]

SENATE

The House resolution for final adjournment came up, but on motion of Mr Sherman was temporarily laid on the table

Mr Morton presented a memorial from the Southern Republican Association, which was read. The memorialists represent that their association is composed of citizens from all the Southern States, at present residents of the District of Columbia, and sets forth that immigration southward was retarded and the interests of their section materially retarded by the Ku Klux outrages, and urging the necessity of immediate action by Congress to protect the people, and particularly the loyal element. Referred to the Com. on Southern Outrages

A bill was passed providing for the appointment by the President of three Commissioners, one of whom shall be an engineer of the army and one a mining engineer, to make a thorough investigation of the feasibility, cost, value and probable results of the Sutro Tunnel in Nevada.

A large number of bills and resolutions were introduced and properly referred

Mr Wilson introduced a bill for protection of persons resident within the United States against unlawful combinations and conspiracies which was referred to Com. on Judiciary. It provides for the punishment of unlawful acts of members of the Ku Klux organization by U. S Courts, as felonies. It authorizes the President to employ land and naval forces of the United States, and to call forth the militia of any State in which unlawful combinations exist, in order to bring offenders to trial, and to require grand and petit jurors to swear they never counselled, advised or aided such combinations or conspiracies.

Mr Davis introduced a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution for the establishment of a constitutional tribunal, consisting of one member from each State, with power to decide all questions of conflict and jurisdiction between the United States and the several States, and the constitutionality of bills passed by Congress, or acts done by any Government officer, and to open and count the electoral votes for President and Vice President. The proceedings before the tribunal may be on petition or appeal from all courts in the United States and of the State. The majority of the tribunal shall decide all questions brought before them.

Pending action on the House appropriation bill the Senate went into Executive session and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE.

Mr. Kelley of Pa., rose to a personal explanation, asking to be excused from serving on the Select Committee on account of ill health. He entered a solemn protest against Mr. Butler's charge that the high tariff men entered into a combination with the Democracy on the passage of Mr. Peters' resolution.

Mr. Butler denied that he made such an accusation against Mr. Kelley, but applied it to others.

Mr. Peters of Me., explained that a majority of the Republicans present voted for the resolution.

Mr. Butler said that the resolution was sprung upon the House by a trick.

Mr. Dawes of Mass. asked an explanation: Did his colleague apply the word trick to 58 Republicans who voted for the resolution?

Mr. Butler, in further explanation found fault with those who attended the caucus agreeing on a bill and then voting for a resolution.

Mr. Peters explained that the resolution was drawn by Mr Blaine, his colleague, and offered by himself as a compromise, even if there was further legislation and it was shown to the gentleman from Massachusetts

Mr. Butler—And what was my answer?

Mr. Peters—It does not matter what your answer was. I am giving the facts.

Mr Butler—My answer was, that on no condition would I vote for it.

Mr. Blaine desired to ask Mr. Butler whether he denied to him the right to draw resolutions.

Mr Butler replied that he made no such assertion

Mr. Blaine—Did not the gentleman know that I drew it?

Mr Butler—No

Mr Blaine—Was it not at your request I added the words "that the expenses of the committee be paid out of the contingent fund of the House"? (Applause)

Mr Butler—What answer did I make?

Mr Blaine—Did I not read the amendment to you?

Mr. Butler—Did I not say that under no circumstances would I vote for the resolution?

Mr Blaine alluded to Mr Butler's remark that the Speaker had packed the committee

Mr Butler—I know it was a trick of the gentleman

Mr Blaine said he was glad to know the trick was successful and denied that Mr Butler was authorized to speak for those who voted for the resolution

Mr Butler—I am not here to detail private conversation

Mr Blaine—And you distribute unfounded calumny on private information which was called for but not produced

Mr Butler interrupting—Pardon me

Mr Blaine—God will—I cannot

Mr Butler—I have no favors to ask of the Devil (Laughter)

Mr Blaine after further remarks resented all the statements in Mr Butler's card as mean innuendos and groundless assertions and hoped he (Butler) would live to see the day to be ashamed of it

Mr Butler replied with sharpness, applying to the Speaker "Ways that are dark and tricks that are vain," and said "I name and that I dare maintain that my language was when asked to support the resolution 'I'll be damned if I'll have anything to do with it.' The calling of hard names did not hurt him. If hard names could kill him he would have been killed long ago. As to being ashamed of his card, it would live long after Mr Blaine shall have occupied the Presidential chair

The running debate was exciting and continuing an hour

After further remarks by Messrs Maynard, Shellabarger, Dawes and others, Messrs Shellabarger Burdell, Kelley Butler and Coburn were excused from serving on the committee

Mr Butler was unable to introduce his anti ku-klux bill and the House adjourned.

They waived an examination and gave bail in the sum of $300 each, for their appearance at the next criminal term of the S. J Court —In stating yesterday that no action was taken at the Directors' meeting of the Maine Central Railroad Co, in the case of General Superintendent, we may have created an erroneous impression. The officers named were all newly appointed or transferred, Mr Edwin Noyes remaining Superintendent of the road.

—The Jameson Guards marched to the fine music of the Bangor Cornet Band, from their Armory on Main St. to the E & N A Station yesterday afternoon, to take the 4 45 train for Oldtown, where they gave an exhibition drill last evening. The Guards presented a splendid appearance on the march —fully sustaining all that has been said of their perfect discipline and drill. We learn that they had a capital time at Oldtown.

—Walter, son of Mr. Charles Bennett of Corinth, went out last Monday to set some traps on the banks of the river, since which time he has not been seen or heard from. His hatchet was found by the river the next day, and it is supposed that he by some means fell in and was drowned but though the river was thoroughly dragged, no trace of him except the hatchet had been discovered up to yesterday morning. Young Bennett was 18 years of age, and had for a long time been subject to fits.

BURRILL BROOK. Mr. Editor,—Burrill Brook, taking its rise in the little meadow near the Hayden place, Stillwater Avenue, thence running into Kenduskeag stream by the Drew or Godfrey place, with much of the way a water-shed on each side of from fifty to one hundred rods in width, and receiving the sewerage from much of Lime, Grove, Elm, Essex, Pine, Broadway, French, Centre, Market and Howard streets, is becoming a real nuisance, and one that ought at once to be abated. [illegible] the health of people who breathe its miasma, and should a season favorable to produce cholera come these water-sheds would be a fertile field for its full development.

BANGOR AND PISCATAQUIS RAILROAD. We learn that the net earnings of the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad for the months of December, January and February, as compared with the net earnings during the corresponding months a year ago, are in the ratio of 50 to 18, showing an increase of about 176 per cent. The number of passengers conveyed over the road in the past three months is 60 per cent. greater than the number carried in the corresponding months, a year ago, and the amount of freight is increased almost beyond belief, showing that the road is doing a business which fully comes up to the expectations of its most sanguine supporters

ST PATRICK'S DAY. To day is St Patrick's Day, more generally celebrated through out the world than any other saint's day. St Patrick was born in the year 373, and died in 493 aged 120 years. There is a general impression that he was a jolly, rollicking sort of a saint but Bishop Butler, in his 'Lives of the Saints,' gives him quite a different character, saying that he forsook his family, sold his birth right and dignity, to serve strangers, and consecrated his soul to God, to carry His name to the end of the earth.' A great many pleasant traditions are related of St Patrick however, and wherever a son of the Emerald Isle is, this day will be celebrated. Extensive and complete preparations for the observation of the day have been made in this city, and should the weather be pleasant, the display on the streets will be imposing. A large number of distinguished guests will participate in the festivities of the occasion —In the S J Court at Rockland on Thursday, the counsel of Alden Litchfield, convicted at the Fall term for robbery of the Lime Rock Bank, moved for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence, and alleged tampering with the jury. The hearing on the motion was postponed until a certified report of the evidence at the former trial can be obtained

—Gov Perham made the following nominations yesterday: Warren Johnson State Superintendent of Common Schools, Enos T Luce, Judge of the Municipal Court Lewiston, Benj Kingsbury, Jr Edwin R French and Samuel Garnsey, Commissioners to devise a plan for an Industrial School for Girls, Nathan A Farwell of Rockland, Joshua L Chamberlain of Brunswick, Joshua Nye of Waterville, and Nelson Dingley, Jr, of Lewiston, Trustees of the Orphan Asylum at Bath. Joseph T Woodward, State Librarian

—At a crystal wedding in Portland, Wednesday, a young man named Robert M Woods, a glass worker, aged 16, fell down a flight of stairs backwards, was taken up insensible, and died Thursday

—A family in Biddeford discovered who pilfered their sugar, meat, kerosene, etc by substituting water for kerosene in the can. Soon after the substitution was made the lady who lives in the other part of the house complained that her kerosene would not burn and that she had wasted nearly a bunch of matches in trying to light the lamp

—The rails of the Knox & Lincoln Railroad are now laid to Wiscasset and the construction train is rapidly ballasting and grading the road to that place. It is expected to open the road for travel to Wiscasset by the first of April and they further expect to have cars running to Damariscotta by June

—The Portland Press says it is informed that arrangements are in progress for the establishment of a democratic paper in Lewiston, whereupon the Journal says 'This is as it should be. No democratic city ought to be without such a convenience.'

—In Gardiner on Monday, John O'Brien came home drunk, and mashed Michael Orman's face with an iron jack. O'Brien was arraigned before the Police Court, and was bound over in the sum of four hundred dollars to appear at the S J Court. Failing to obtain bonds, the officers were taking him back to the lockup, when he broke away from them and escaped

—A large and finely executed model of an Egyptian Sphinx, in plaster of Paris, 16 feet high, by Millmore has been received at Hallowell, where a copy is to be made in granite which, when finished, will be placed in Mount Auburn. It was ordered by Dr Jacob Bigelow of Boston

—Delwyn A Hamlin, a member of the Senior Class of Colby University, has been called to take charge of a class in the Boston Grammar School with a salary of $1,000

—Rev J Washburne of Parkman, lost a cow last week worth $100

—A jar of sulphate of indigo exploded as Mrs S P Wing of Sangerville, was attempting to open it, the contents striking her in face, severely burning the skin, and nearly depriving her of sight.

—Wentworth Fall of Houlton, has a three years old Durham steer weighing 1075 pounds

—As three ladies were crossing the bridge at Abbot village on the 6th inst, in a sleigh, the horse took a sudden fright and jumped over a precipice, 30 feet high, at the end of bridge. As the horse went over the precipice the whiffle tree and both thills broke and left the sleigh, and the women safely sitting in the street.

—The injuries received by Mr James H Sterling, while engaged in dismounting one of the heavy guns at Fort Scammel, Portland harbor, last Saturday week, proved fatal Saturday morning

—The gross receipts of the second season of the Drummer Boy in Portland, by Post Bosworth, G A R, amount to between $2,400 and $2,500, augmenting the relief fund of the Post about $1200

—There were forty seven deaths in Portland during February

—A $300 horse of G. D Miller, of Portland, injured by slipping in its stable, had to be killed, Saturday.

—Two thousand pairs of shoes per week are now manufactured at the Togus National Military Asylum.

—The Warren Thread Co, Worcester, Mass., have recently investigated the facilities offered them at Waterville, and there is some hope that they may prefer them to those offered them elsewhere.

BUSINESS ITEMS

Corns Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, and their attendant ills, have been in years gone by and will be in years to come, a source of much discomfort and unhappiness to the sorrowful unfortunates who are pestered and annoyed with them. But by persistent efforts and untiring perseverance, Dr J Briggs gave to suffering humanity his famed remedies—alleviator and curative. The favor and popularity which they have gained, and the entire satisfaction derived from their use, is well known and can be attested by all classes who have suffered with Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Chilblains Frosted or Blistered Feet, &c. Sold by B F Bradbury, W E Mann, W L Alden & Co, H H Butler, J F Patten & Co, Blood & Rowe and Druggists generally

CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, GENERAL DEBILITY — Caution — HYPOPHOSPHITES — FELLOWS'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES.—As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effects from all other remedies called HYPOPHOSPHITES, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I Fellows is written with red ink across each label and the price is $2 00 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where it has been introduced and it is a thoroughly orthodox preparation

A Bottle of HOFFMAN'S GERMAN LINIMENT in the house, will frequently prevent a troublesome disease and a still more troublesome bill for medicine and attendance. See advertisement

SPALDING'S GLUE, useful and true

DR SCHENCK ADVISES CONSUMPTIVES TO GO TO FLORIDA IN WINTER!

Having for the last thirty five years devoted my whole time and attention to the study of lung diseases and consumption, I feel that I understand fully the course that ought to be pursued to restore a tolerably bad case of diseased lungs to healthy soundness. The first and most important step is for the patient to avoid taking cold, and the best of all places [illegible] for this purpose in winter is Florida, well down in the State, where the temperature is regular and not subject to such variations as in more northern latitudes. [illegible]

On [illegible] Jacksonville, Hibernia, Green Cove and many other places in various parts of Florida [illegible] consumptives in winter. [illegible] it seems almost impossible to take cold there [illegible]

For fifteen years prior to 1869 I was professionally in New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia every week, where I saw and examined on an average five hundred patients a week. A practice so extensive [illegible] has enabled me to understand the disease fully [illegible] Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills [illegible]

My advice to persons whose lungs are affected [illegible] is to take Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Schenck's Mandrake Pills and go to Florida. [illegible]

So far as the Mandrake Pills are concerned [illegible] They are perfectly harmless. They can do you only good [illegible] my professional visits to Boston and New York but continue to see patients at my office No 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, every Saturday from 9 a m, to 3 p m. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged five dollars. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not. But I desire it distinctly understood that the value of my medicines depends entirely upon their being taken strictly according to directions.

In conclusion I will say that when persons take my medicines and their systems are brought into a healthy condition thereby they are not so liable to take cold, yet no one with diseased lungs can bear a sudden change of atmosphere without the liability of greater or less irritation of the bronchial tubes

Full directions in all languages accompany my medicines, so explicit and clear that any one can use them without consulting me and can be bought from any druggist

Invigorate the Responsible Organ

The stomach is the responsible organ of the system. If the digestion is imperfect every member every gland, every muscle, every nerve and fibre is more or less out of order. All the fluids are depraved. The brain is clouded. The spirits are depressed. All dyspeptics know this to be the truth. It is not, however half the truth. Columns would be required to enumerate the pains and penalties of dyspepsia, nor could any pen do them justice. Tens of thousands feel them, no man can describe them.

Can they be prevented? Can they be relieved? Can they be banished at once and forever? Unquestionably they can. No dyspeptic has ever taken Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in vain. Believe no one who says the complaint is incurable. This great vegetable stomachic will eradicate it—is eradicating it in thousands of cases over which medical practitioners have shaken their heads ominously, saying, "Nothing can be done."

The faculty has its fallacies. One of them is that indigestion is the most difficult of all the ordinary ailments of mankind to combat and subdue. This is a mistake. Nothing can be easier than to conquer it, if the true specific be administered. The vegetable combination which has become famous throughout the civilized world as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an antidote to the disease which has never been known to fail, and fortunately it is everywhere procurable. If you wish to fool with the dyspepsia, try the pharmacopœia prescriptions. If you want to root it out and prevent its recurrence, take the Bitters daily. There is no discount on the testimony in its favor. If there is a man or woman who has ever tried it for indigestion without being benefitted, the fact has not transpired. Universal, uncontradicted praise avouches its wonderful tonic virtues

have now built and equipped in first class manner about

which will complete their entire line, with the exception of laying the track on twenty five miles which is already graded. They will thus open from north to south, and by making a slight detour at one point they will give

DIRECT COMMUNICATION BETWEEN ST LOUIS AND ST PAUL.

This line of Railroad will have very special advantages for both local and through business, besides such superior railroad connections as will secure to it a large portion of the carrying trade of the great Northwest. The

First Mortgage

7 Per Cent. Gold Bonds

which are issued upon this road are limited in amount to $16,000 per mile (while many roads issue from $20 000 to $40 000) and are offered at 90 and accrued interest in currency. About two millions and a half of these bonds have already been disposed of, leaving but a small balance unsold, which are being rapidly taken

The most experienced financiers agree that First Mortgage Bonds, to a limited amount, upon a finished railroad which is well located for business are one of the very safest forms of investment

Parties desiring to secure a first class security based upon a railroad practically done and in the hands of leading capitalists who have a large pecuniary and business interest in its success will [illegible] well to apply at the office of the Company or any of its advertised agents for a pamphlet and map showing the character of the enterprise.

Holders of Government Bonds may exchange them for Central Iowa's at a large present profit [illegible] of interest for a long term of years. Parties making such exchange will receive for each $1000 Bond [illegible] $1000 Central Iowa Bond and the following difference in cash less the accrued interest in currency upon the latter bond at 7 per cent [illegible]

MATT WARD'S FIRST CLIENT

BY [illegible]

[illegible] I [illegible] with an involuntary doubling of my fist

"[illegible] feel so sure that it was [illegible] How could he know that it might not [illegible] of the boarders or servants for [illegible] Why suspect her of all others—[illegible]

"[illegible] which he kept his money was [illegible] and the only access [illegible] was by a flight of stairs from his [illegible] chamber and the key of the desk was [illegible] possessor. Alma took charge [illegible] room herself so you see there [illegible] chance for an outsider to meddle [illegible]"

"You do not think ——" I began hotly, but Ward went steadily on unheeding the interruption

"When Drinkwater confronted her with [illegible] of theft and promised [illegible] she would give up all the [illegible] in her possession she met his reproach with silent scorn declared herself [illegible] expressed her willingness to [illegible] his mercy and the justice [illegible]

"[illegible] was terribly reversed [illegible] at the last word but he [illegible] hastily of fearing to betray the [illegible] his emotion

"[illegible] and begged for mercy [illegible] nothing of that sort [illegible] after all Drinkwater [illegible] the matter there for [illegible] that is taking the officers with [illegible] the truth out of her [illegible] threats [illegible] walls of a prison [illegible]

"[illegible]

"[illegible] truth Well [illegible] that I [illegible] you [illegible]"

"[illegible] what I [illegible] nothing [illegible]"

"[illegible] with you gentlemen [illegible] calmly to the officers and as [illegible] the door they could hear Mrs Drinkwater screaming like a mad [illegible] in her chamber above while her [illegible] something between [illegible] about women being fools or [illegible] all the other inmates of the house [illegible] together in a frightened group [illegible] astounded to even speak

"In [illegible] indignant and sympathizing community there were plenty, of course, eager to be [illegible] for her and you may guess that I [illegible] backward in offering my services to [illegible] although I happened to be away at the time of the arrest and didn't get back until after she was committed for trial"

Perhaps he detected the shadow of a doubt upon my face for he said earnestly

"She had nothing to pay a lawyer with and that is one reason why I volunteered my services and although I am untried as [illegible] I think I stand as good chance of success [illegible] older man would for I have a clue in my hands that no one else knows of You remember Mrs Buzzell?"

I laughed In spite of the sad story to which I had just listened, my friend's grave troubled face, and my own real sympathy, I [illegible] think of that woman without laughing

"Of course I do Mrs Buzzell isn't one of the easily forgotten ones"

Ward nodded thoughtfully

"That woman" he went on, "with a deep [illegible] color and in a tone of suppressed excitement knows all about the Drinkwaters, more than they would care to have told, I fancy"

He paused a moment then added mysteriously

"She offered one of those marked bills to the driver when she rode to the cars that day—you remember?"

"Yes"

And suddenly remembering the exchange that I had noticed at that time, I asked [illegible]

"You want this woman for a witness?"

"Yes and I must have her I went to the place where I had expected to find her, but no one had ever heard of such a person I had written several times, but got no answer, and so I came here hoping to find her, but I've failed so far I've ransacked the city from one end to the other, advertised, and had help from the Police besides, but I can't find any trace of her"

The last words were spoken in a tone of despondency, but the next moment he seemed as by a single mighty effort to throw off the unwonted incubus, and his voice had the old resolute ring that I remembered so well, as he added hopefully

"But I must and will find her if she's on the face of the earth"

"And I shall be only too glad to help you in any way that you can suggest," I hastened to say "What is the name of the niece that Mrs. Buzzell was to live with here?"

"Brown——Mrs. Melinda Brown."

"A peculiar name, I suppose you have already introduced yourself to several families bearing it?"

Ward smiled grimly.

"I hope I may never get into such a swarm of B's again;" he said pointing the pun with a sigh of unmistakable weariness

"But I suppose I must start again to morrow morning."

"I'll go with you. Two heads may be better than one in this case," I said, trying to speak hopefully, although I was far from being as sanguine as I pretended

And there, by common consent we dropped the subject, nor was it referred to again, until as we parted for the night, Ward said earnestly

"I shall see you in the morning"

"Yes if I'm alive"

And as the door closed behind him I remember saying (I had a habit of talking to myself in default of better company) that it was a deuced hard case, and I hoped, for Ward's sake almost as much as for hers that her innocence would be proved beyond dispute

Just then I heard an odd sound that seemed to come from a curtained window recess where Kitty kept some of her choicest plants and which was always her favorite resort, and looked upon as especially belonging to her

I should say now, that it sounded like a half suppressed sob, but then my only thought was of burglars smothering an unseasonable cough or sneeze, and arming my self with the poker, I advanced cautiously and drawing aside the curtain with a sudden jerk disclosed, crouched upon the deep window seat, half hidden from sight by a giant oleander whose fragrant, clustering blossoms bent tenderly down as if in loving sympathy for the weeping girl beneath, the tear stained half frightened face of my cousin Kitty

"Why, Kitty!" I exclaimed astonished, and half doubting the evidence of my own eyes "I thought you were at the lecture"

And as she made no answer only covering her face with her hand, while she tried vainly to suppress her sobs my surprise melted into sympathy, as I asked tenderly

"What is it, dear? What has grieved you so?"

Poor Kitty tried hard to speak but her voice died away in an inarticulate murmur that encouraged me, however to draw up a little nearer and at last growing bolder as her sobs continued, I drew the dear little head with its dishevelled curls to my bosom

"What is it Kitty, darling Can't you tell me?" It was the emphasis that I put upon that pronoun no doubt, that did the work, for Kitty drew herself up and with a pitiful effort to regain her lost dignity said with a shy glance at my eager face.

"I didn't care to go to the lecture and I thought I'd prefer a quiet evening at home. When your friend came in I didn't like to make my appearance, for 'twould look as if I'd——been hiding purposely, and so I——had to hear all he told you"

"Well, supposing you did! What harm did it do?"

I spoke lightly, carelessly, but Kitty only turned red and white by turns while she trembled so that the support of my arm was an absolute necessity

"I must tell you" she whispered, breathlessly "It's only right and just that I should" She paused a moment then added, firmly "I know that woman——Mrs Buzzell, and where she lives"

In my astonishment and joy I actually forgot myself so far as to catch the dear girl in my arms and kiss her with a boldness that fairly astonished myself

"Oh Kitty!" I cried joyfully as, blushing, she [illegible] herself from my arms.

"What [illegible] Ward the news [illegible] Then I'll sleep the better for it but [illegible] how did you happen to know this woman?"

"[illegible] Mrs Brown does plain sewing [illegible] going there to see about [illegible] I have noticed this woman who [illegible] whom I have heard her call aunt Buzzell, so I think she must be the one"

"No doubt of it" I cried highly [illegible] glancing at my companion's face I [illegible] frightened at its unnatural [illegible]

She [illegible] from her seat and [illegible] the room when suddenly [illegible] she stopped, her pale lips quivered, and she stretched out one little hand [illegible]

"I suppose you will go to L—— immediately to stand by your —— friend, in her hour of trial?"

"I suppose I [illegible]" I [illegible] somewhat puzzled but I only said [illegible]

"I shall try to run down there at the time of the trial, but that is a week hence"

There was a quick indignant flash in the girl's eyes as she said bitterly

"Your love must be made of worthless stuff if it will let you leave the woman you have bestowed it upon to suffer [illegible] terrible strait"

"My love!" I was completely mystified for a moment then as by a flash all the mists of the past few days melted away from before my mental vision, and I laughed outright, I really couldn't help it:

"You dear precious, little simpleton!" and catching the indignant face between my palms I held it up, blushing and shrinking, to the light.

"Did you think, just because I praised this girl's wondrous beauty that I was in love with her? Didn't you know that there was one and only one in the wide world whom I coveted for my own—and that is—"

I'm not going to tell you what followed, it's enough for you to know that, on the following morning, [illegible] came down to breakfast looking mazed and somewhat incredulous while aunt Hil[illegible] smiled benignantly and took occasion to whisper to me, in the hall that she was

"Perfectly satisfied with dear Kitty's choice" while Kitty, herself actually hurried me off to join my friend in "interviewing" Mrs Buzzell

"I shall feel so anxious," she said earnestly, "to know if she is the right person and if she has it in her power to be of any use to that poor girl"

I smiled slyly, and—set off on my errand

CHAP 6

Rich gifts wax poor, when givers prove unkind

Ward hastened home as soon as the object of his visit to the city had been accomplished, but I lingered several days longer, having by nice calculation, arrived at the conclusion that I might, by taking the night train, be able to reach L—— sometime in the forenoon of the day of the expected trial, at which I was, of course, anxious to be present

Railroad cars are not, in my estimation, the most cheerful places in the world to spend the night in, and as I entered the one that was to take me to my destination, I thought it looked uncommonly lonesome and uninviting,—not at all like the cheerfully lighted parlor that I had left so reluctantly a half hour before, but I was fortunate enough to secure a whole seat, and having disposed of myself as comfortably as circumstances would permit, was about subsiding into a quiet doze, when to my intense disgust, two rough looking men on the seat before me commenced talking in a key that precluded any attempt on my part to sleep, and forced me to listen to a lengthened account from one of them of the manner in which he had disposed of certain "stock" that he had taken to the city to sell, of the sum that he had received therefor, and finally of the use that he intended to make of it.

Here the conversation became more confidential, and as their tones grew lower I found myself growing indifferent, and at last oblivious to the diminishing sounds, when, suddenly a word spoken by one of them aroused me, and I listened with interest, in spite of my sleepiness, to the conversation that followed.

"It's a bad scrape, no mistake," one of them remarked in his deliberate, stolid tones, "but Ward 'll help 'er out of it, if any man on earth can"

The other shook his shaggy head doubtfully.

"I dunno," he said with a jerk at the sleeve of his rough overcoat. "I wish 'im well of course, but he's young yit, an' ain't never seen much service I hear that Drinkwater has sent ter the city for one o' them great lawyers that can make a body believe, himself, that he's guilty while he's a listenin to 'im"

His companion laughed, confidently

"Let 'm bring all the city lawyers they want ter I'll resk Ward to face a hull regyment on 'em You see, I was brought up down in M[illegible]e, nigh where the Wards has lived for years, hull generations of 'em an' I know 'em root an' branch, an' let me tell you, I never knew of one of 'em that ever give up beat in anything he'd undertook They're an awful determined race men an' wimmin both"

The man's tone even more than his words was so thoroughly confident that I felt my own courage increasing and I waited eagerly for his reply as the other remarked indifferently

"They must a' been a terrible lucky set o' folks ter allers git jest what they sot out for"

"They was too sensible to be onreasonable in their set outs," was the ready answer. "They knew jest what they had the power to [illegible] 'em to do, an' they had the real grit ter hold on till 'twas done"

His comrade growled appreciatively, and the speaker added

"I spose you never heerd o' this Ward's great gran'ma'am—old aunt Debby Ward they used to call her? 'Twas a pretty good yarn that they used to tell about the old lady Yer see she lived in the town of Orrington, in eighteen twelve, when the Britishers come up the river to Hampden, a' bombardin' the towns along on both sides, an' when they begun to blow away at Orrington, this aunt Debby an' [illegible] gals run down suller ter git out o' the way o' the shots, an' there was a churn full o' cream all ready for the churnin', an' what does aunt Debby do but grab holt o' the handle, an' churn away like all possest.

"The balls was a whizzin over their heads an' men was a shoutin', and wimmin' a screamin' but aunt Debby jest kep on her churnin' an' said nothin' ter nobody

"At last one o' the gals that was jest about dead with fright, called out, an' says she 'Oh ma'am—do stop that churnin'! Yer'll be killed any minute'

"'Well what if I am?' sez the old lady, a' workin' the dasher up an' down harder'n ever

"'I'd jest as lives die a' churnin' as any way' an' by the time the British was off out o' reach she had her butter ready to work over"

His companion laughed and so did I

"Now that's jest a specimen on 'em," the speaker went on, in a quietly philosophical tone "Some folks talk about it's bein all nonsense this notion that blood has anything ter do with a man's natural disposition but I'll tell you there's somethin' in the breed arter all Don't the Bible say that yer can't gather figs of thistles, an' that the children shall suffer for the father's sins?

"Now my ideas on this subject may be a lee-tle different from some others, but I guess they'll stand fire, arter all I believe the children suffer for the sins o' the parents, when they're cussed with the same traits in them selves It's naturally the strongest points in our characters that we hand down, an' if there good ones well for the next generation, an' visy versy"

The strange [illegible] theological speculation failing to interest me I dropped off to sleep from which I awoke to find the East ruddy with approaching day while the shrill whistle of the slackening engine announced our near approach to the station

I glanced from the windows Yes there was the old, yellow coach, in waiting just as it had stood only a few months before, and as the cars stopped and I hurried out upon the platform I saw emerging from the rear car, the well remembered black bonnet and dissatisfied visage of—

"Mrs Buzzell!"

I had spoken the name involuntarily, and in scarcely more than an undertone, but the sharp ears inside of that black bonnet were as alert as ever, and looking up, she recognized me with a smile of satisfaction that brightened her face like a stray gleam of wintry sun shine upon the withered cheek of some forlorn wind fall

"That can't be you Mr ——! Well I am glad now Here I've been a worryin' my self just about to death about havin' to go to the village all alone If anything should happen ter me, you know such as my gitten left ter the wrong place for instance, an' I a wit ness, too"—

The look of solemn importance upon the weazened face was so indescribably comical that I had hard work to keep from laughing outright

"I appreciate the importance of your presence at the trial," I said, as gravely as I could, "and I will speak to the driver to hurry up, so that there shall be no danger of your being late"

Mrs Buzzell, who was by this time safely disposed of inside the coach, answered my assurance with a sigh of relief

"I was expected yesterday," she went on confidentially, as I seated myself beside her, "but Melindy's baby had a croupy spell, a night before last, and of course I couldn't leave her alone with it, so I took the night train an' come on as quick as I could I do hope I shan't be too late"

I assured her that there was no danger, as the witnesses for the prosecution must be examined first, and there were so many forms and ceremonies to be gone through with, that she might not be wanted to-day even

"Oh, well," she ejaculated, with an air of serene self satisfaction, "I'm ready when I am called on to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, an' if folks don't stare when they hear it, I'll miss my guess"

There was a malicious twinkle in her eyes as she spoke the concluding words, and I artfully suggested that

"It might not be a particularly pleasant surprise to some"

"I'll bet it won't," she chuckled, mischievously

"When folks that think they're so much better than some other folks, finds out that some other folks is as good as they or any of their folks are, an' that other folks know it, too, they'll be likely to feel a little streaked, I guess,—don't you?"

Of course I could do no less than assent to this very plain and intelligible supposition, but to my surprise all farther efforts to "draw out" my companion on the subject were unavailing, and I was glad enough when the church steeples and chimneys of L——, met my eye, and as the coach stopped before the tall, brick Court House, I saw that even the court yard was thronged with eager, curious faces, while a perfect Babel of voices discussed the exciting case that was, that day to be brought forward for trial, with the chances for and against the prisoner.

As I elbowed my way through the crowd, I felt my cheeks burning with impotent rage at the coarse and slighting comments that I was forced to hear.

"Why, in thunder," growled a burly two fisted fellow who bore the unmistakable signs of debauchery and evil in his inflamed countenance, "didn't the old man nab 'er in the [illegible] of it? If't been me" and he laughed hideously, "I'd a' found a way ter made 'er own up, 'fore I'd lost all he did. Somethin' nigh onto five hundred, wasn't it?"

"Oh, Lord, no!" answered a somewhat milder voice. "T'was in small sums, fives, mostly, till this last haul, an' that wasn't far from fifty, I b'lieve."

With a desperate effort I pushed forward a few steps, but I could not escape that terrible hum of voices that was constantly going on about me

"They say Mis' Drinkwater's just about crazy," piped a shrill voice at my elbow, "an' I heerd (I don't know how true 'tis) but I heerd that Dr Haines said that if she was made to come into court an' give 'er testimony 'twould be at the resk o' her life"

"Poor creeter!" ejaculated some benevolently disposed individual "It's a terrible come-down Yesterday as you might say at the very top o' the heap, to-day in the prisoner's box, on trial for stealin'"

I couldn't stand this any longer, and I remember how, as I resolutely forced my way into the crowded court room, I caught my self moralizing upon that strange tendency of human nature, to believe in the guilt rather than in the innocence of a suspected fellow mortal, and vaguely wondered, amid the excitement and bustle, why poor Alma who had never in all her life given any human being cause for enmity should, in this her hour of humiliation, find even strangers taking her guilt as a matter of course and coolly speculating thereon as if it were something beyond the possibility of dispute

Several unimportant witnesses had been already examined, and as I entered, Drinkwater's counsel, a noted city lawyer, was politely endeavoring to "draw out" a very reluctant witness by that suggestive questioning so popular among the fraternity

"You say" insinuated that gentleman blandly, "that it was impossible for another than the defendant to have gained access to the loft where the money, was kept without your knowledge?"

The crowd in the court room, unlike that without, was even painfully quiet, and the tremulous and reluctant "yes" revealed to me the presence of Mrs Drinkwater, even before a slight change of position in the tall fellow just before me, gave me a full view of the slight, trembling form and tearful face of the witness

"And she fretted at her supposed father's illiberality, wished she could have this or that girlish fancy gratified?

Miss Drinkwater's childish face flushed indignantly, and she cast a defiant look at the lawyer, as she exclaimed, with sudden energy

"She never fretted for herself It was my deprivations that she felt"

The counsel could have had but little knowledge of his witness' changeable moods or he would not have been so thoroughly taken aback by this unexpected answer, however he managed to ask several more questions which she either evaded, or, with her old childish petulance absolutely refused to answer

Then came Ward's turn, and it was wonderful to see, as he turned his clear, grey eye upon the witness, how his naturally awkward figure seemed to have acquired a sudden dignity, while his voice that might have been excused for some faltering under the circumstances, was clear and assured as if the case were already his own

"Do you remember Mrs Drinkwater," he asked coolly, and with the slightest touch of contempt in his tones, "how, on the evening of your birthnight party, the fifteenth of September last, you tried to induce me to make false entries in your husband's books to cover the abstraction of some money that you wished to take from his store without his knowledge?"

It was pitiable to see the shrinking, cowering form and frightened face of the unhappy woman as she glanced, here and there, as if seeking some avenue of escape but the relentless eye of the questioner held her enchained, while the subtile magnetism of his overpowering will forced the reluctant cry from her lips

"Yes; but I didn't take it"

Just then for the first time I caught a glimpse of Alma's face, white, composed and tearless but with a world of pity looking out of the proud eyes as they rested upon the trembling form of the speaker, that revealed the pain that this revelation was costing her

"You said," continued the lawyer, quietly making a note in his memorandum book, "that you must have the sum for a special purpose that your husband had forbidden your spending another dollar for Can you deny this?"

"No"

And she sank half fainting upon the shoulder of her husband whose stolid face wore a look of angry bewilderment not unmixed with shame In fact it had been evident from the first that Ward's supposition in regard to his earlier intentions was correct, and, that he had merely intended to frighten the culprit into a confession, but failing in that, had felt himself bound to see the affair out, whatever of shame or regret it might cause him
